ARK John Keats Academy

Emily & Zoe, ARK John Keats Academy became Reps where there had been no union presence before. They have been really successful in the changes they have made. They attend the Academy JCC meetings where the unions can communicate openly with the Head. As a result of their negotiations cover has been restricted and timetabled and P7 on Friday has been removed so that the day ends at 3pm. Previously members had family lunch time, which was spent with students, this has now been reduced to only two a week. They were able to say at the JCC meetings that members loved the school and wanted to make improvements. As a result of the changes members are happier.

The National Education Union represents the majority of teachers and education professionals in the UK.

Fern House School

Niamh Minster, Fern House Rep was elected along with her co-rep in October thanks to Chris Odams and completed training in November. They recently had their first meeting with management and all their requests were granted. This included a communication agreement, directed time calendar and a cancellation of extra meetings.

National LGBT+ Educators' Conference 2019

“Attending this conference has made me feel more empowered and driven in making the union, teaching profession and society more inclusive for all. Sharing the environment with like-minded delegates gave me a sense of belonging and a realisation that through collectivism real change can be made.

Furthermore, contributing to Annette Pryce’s executive report on the impact of self-organising intersectional LGBT+ networks, filled me with sheer pride and motivation to make wider contributions in the future.”
